The Preface

In the autumn of 1891 the writer had the pleasure of forming the acquaintance of Dr. Otis F. Presbrey at Washington, D. C. Our conversation at that time, and subsequent correspondence concerning our ancestors, aroused an interest in the subject, so that ever after that time, whenever any data concerning the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton, Mass., was found, it was carefully preserved; although at the time with no thought of publication, but merely for the gratification of a personal interest in genealogy and a special interest in this family.

About 1896, George J. Presbrey, a son of Dr. Otis F. Presbrey, began to work up the genealogy with a view to publication. However, his untimely death in 1907 caused the work to cease when the research was merely commenced. Such letters and papers as were found after the death of George J. Presbrey were recently turned over to the writer by Frank Presbrey of New York City, with the request that the genealogy be prepared for printing. These letters and papers have been found of some value in furnishing some information given by persons since deceased, and in giving clues to other sources of information.

While acknowledging our indebtedness to Dr. Otis F. Presbrey, who first awakened an interest in the subject, and to George J. Presbrey for making a start with the work, the paramount credit for bringing the work to completion should be given to Mr. Frank Presbrey of New York City; because without such generous financial support as he has rendered in paying the necessary expenses of the research work, its accomplishment would have been impossible.

If Dr. Otis F. Presbrey could see this completed work in genealogy, in which he took a very deep interest, we are sure he would feel gratified. It is for this reason that we have considered it proper to dedicate the book to him. Mr. Frank Presbrey feels that in aiding this work he has been helping to raise a memorial to the memory of his excellent and worthy father.

Grateful acknowledgment for kindly interest and helpful information should also be given to many others. To Dr. Silas D. Presbrey of Taunton, the late James E. Seaver of Taunton, Secretary of the Old Colony Historical Society, Miss Mary E. Waterman, of the Park Commission, of Taunton, The New England Historical and Genealogical Society for the privilege of examining manuscripts in their office, and many others, too numerous to mention here. Many have replied to letters of inquiry and given information not otherwise obtainable. Many city, town and county clerks have kindly sent transcripts from records, some of them making no charge for copying records. The Nicholas White Genealogy by T. J. Lothrop of Taunton, The Flagg Genealogy by C. A. Flagg, The Wilbor Genealogy by John R. Wilbor, and the Pratt Genealogy have been found helpful in corroborating records obtained from other sources. The History of Bristol County by D. Hamilton Hurd has served to give a geographical and historical setting for the lives of the earlier generations of Presbreys and affiliated families.

This book is the completion of a work which had its inception twenty-five years ago. Thus the family tree which has been slowly developing its full proportions for a quarter of a century has now reached maturity. It contains valuable and interesting information, much of which could not now be reproduced, because given verbally by lips which have since become sealed. This suggests a valid reason why many more such family genealogies ought to be published before interesting historical facts are forever lost.

There is a peculiar fascination in such research work, but it should not be forgotten that there is a vast amount of exacting and painstaking work in it that can be fully appreciated only by those who have had experience in such work.

The writer has formed some very interesting and pleasant acquaintances among the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton. This may be regarded as affording some measure of reward for the work. It has been largely a labor of love, as the writer has never expected full financial remuneration for the large amount of work he has done, extending over a period of a number of years.

More than seven hundred descendants of William Presbrey are named in the book, counted by generations, as follows:

First Generation	3
Second Generation	17
Third Generation	77
Fourth Generation	152
Fifth Generation	225
Sixth Generation	205
Seventh Generation	52
Eighth Generation	7
Total	738

In most cases the descendants in the female lines have been traced down only one generation. If their descendants had been traced to the present time, the number of descendants of William Presbrey would probably number considerably more than a thousand. It may be that a few Presbreys and Presbys of the last two or three generations have not been found; but it is not so important to publish the records of those now living as to preserve the records of the earlier generations. We are satisfied that the records of the family are as complete and as accurate as usually found in a work of this kind. Any descendant of William Presbrey now living, especially in the male line, even if his name is not found in this book can easily trace his ancestry through the earlier generations as given back to the original immigrant who came from England and settled in Taunton, Mass., in 1711.

Such a genealogy is never entirely satisfactory, because it is impossible to trace all the descendants of any old colonial family covering a period of more than two hundred years, as ours does, and get all the names and vital statistics perfectly complete and accurate. The early records of towns and counties are far from complete. In many instances they were never made, and in other instances they have perished either by fire or neglect. In view of the difficulties suggested, we trust that any who may discover incompleteness or inaccuracy in this record will be lenient in their criticisms, and have some appreciation of the value of the information given.

JOSEPH WAITE PRESBY.

Introduction

SIGNIFICANCE AND VALUE OF GENEALOGY

Genealogy has been defined as the science of personal identification. Its object is the discovery and preservation of records, such as would be regarded as conclusive evidence in a court of law, establishing the identity of the person in his relations, both to his ancestors and his descendants, or, his kinship, both as to consanguinity and affinity.

Genealogy is an expression of man's natural desire to preserve the memorials of his ancestors, for the sake of the social, political and religious lessons, and the inspiration that may be derived therefrom. Genealogy should not be studied as a mere fad, nor for the purpose of merely gratifying a barren curiosity or a despicable vanity. When conducted in a proper spirit, research in genealogy brings to our view bright examples of personal worth which may serve to stimulate and encourage to noble aspirations and laudable endeavor. The genealogist is engaged in a very important form of historical research. It is history in its relation to the character and doings of those who have been active in the making of history.

ETYMOLOGY OF SURNAMES

A study of the nomenclature of a people involves a study of their history. There is nothing without a name and every name has a history, whether it be the name of a man or anything else. Originally a name was given to a man on account of his occupation, the name of the place where he lived, some characteristic or some achievement of his. Thus every name has some personal or historic significance. As to their origin English surnames have been divided into five classes:—

1. Soubriquets, or names denoting personal characteristics, such as Rufus meaning red hair, Armstrong, lightfoot, &c.

2. Patronymics, derived from the name of the father, such as Johnson, son of John, McDonald, son of Donald, Fitzpatrick, son of Patrick, &c.

3. Names derived from localities, or objects in nature, such as, Ford, Field, Rivers, Mount, &c.

4. Names suggested by the occupation, such as Fuller, Cook, Mason, Fisher, Fowler, &c.

5. Names derived from the public life, official or social position of the person, such as Freeman, Knight, Earle, Smith, &c. Whatever changes may have been made in the spelling, even though the name may have been changed so that its original significance is more or less obscured, it is believed that all English surnames have been derived from one or another of these five classes.

It is evident that similar conditions as to personal characteristics, occupation, achievements or place might lead to an independent origin of the same name in different places, so that the ancestors of two persons bearing the same name might not be at all related, or even from the same country.

The writer knows of a naturalized citizen of the United States who spells his name Presbery, and is a native of Russian Poland and a Jew. He says his father, grandfather and great grandfather lived in the same town from which he came, and bore the same name. His spelling of the name is about as near the original as he can express it in English. A number of names similar to Presbury and Presbrey have been found in this country. A man in Taunton, Mass., by the name of Presbo served as a revolutionary soldier. A Mr. Prest was admitted a freeman in Boston in 1643. W. M. Prest, a lawyer in Boston, was born in Lancashire, England. A Dr. Prest is now living in Troy, N. Y. Mr. Presbus married in Lee, Mass., in 1890. There is a Mr. Presba now living in Chicago. A laborer by the name of Presbryto was recently living in Rutland, Vt. There has been a large family living in Bradford, N. H. that spelled the name Presbury and Presby, and they are not related to the Presbreys and Presbys who descended from William Presbrey of Taunton, unless they may have been related generations ago in England. The name may have originated independently in different towns in England, as the following paragraph will make plain.

A critical study of possible origins has led to the conclusion that the name Presbury originated from the social standing of the person, combined with the place in which he lived. Prest may indicate that the man who first bore the name was the priest, presbyter or elder of the bury, burg or town in which he lived. However, the title, Prest, does not necessarily indicate that the man was an ecclesiastic. The word praestare indicates one who stands before others by reason of superiority of character or social position, and so was sometimes used to designate the leading man of the Bury, or the lord of the manor. Bury is from the Anglo-Saxon burgh, birig or byrig, and is the same as the German burg, meaning a town, a castle or a residence. Bury is now the market town and parliamentary borough of Lancashire, England. It was once a Saxon station and an old English castle was there. Although not used as often as formerly, the name bury is now found attached to many old English places. The manorial residence in some places is known as "The Bury." Thus we may readily see how the two words, Prest and bury, might be combined and form the word, Prestbury, the Prest of the Bury, and simply dropping the letter t in the middle of the word gives the name, Presbury. This theory of the origin of the name appears reasonable, and clearly in accord with the commonly accepted theory concerning the origin of English surnames. Thus the name Presbury suggests not only a long pedigree, dating back into early English history, but also that the ancestors of the Presbreys and Presbys were respectable people in good social standing, either as ecclesiastics or social and political leaders in their locality.

ORTHOGRAPHY OF THE NAME PRESBURY

At least ten different ways of spelling the name have been found, viz: Presbury, Presbrey, Presby, Presberry, Presbry, Presbey, Prisbury, Prisberry, Prisby, and Preisbrey. So far as we know only the first three spellings given have ever been adopted as the approved orthography by any of the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton. Most of the other ways of spelling the name have come from errors of those who did not know how to spell the name, or tried to spell it as the pronunciation sounded to them. In many old deeds we find the name spelled incorrectly by the person who wrote the deed, but the name is spelled correctly by the person who signed the deed. No distinction can be made in the pronunciation of Presbury and Presbrey. Probably the latter spelling came from spelling it as the pronunciation sounds. The shorter spelling, Presby, was probably adopted by some because it is a little easier to spell and pronounce. This spelling is used by the New Hampshire branch of the family. The large family of Presbys in Bradford, N. H., were there before any of the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton came to the state, and that may have influenced the descendants of William Presbrey to conform to the spelling which seemed to prevail in New Hampshire. The ending, by, is Danish and means the same as bury. Thus the name, Presby, may be regarded as having the same origin and precisely the same significance as Presbury. The first who are known to have come from England to this country spelled the name Presbury, as John Presbury of Sandwich, Mass. in 1640, John Presbury of Saco, Me.. 1670, the Presburys of Baltimore, and Nathaniel Presbury who came from Blackfriars, London, England, and married Parthenia Benson in Portsmouth, N. H. in 1726. Presbury is said to be the only spelling found in books of heraldry. This corresponds with Salisbury, Pillsbury, Sudbury, and other English names having the same ending. Benjamin Franklin Presbrey of Taunton, Mass., published a book in 1859, entitled: "The Mustee, or Love and Liberty," and had his name printed on the title page, Presbury. The inference is that being a scholarly man who had made some investigation concerning the name, he adopted the orthography that he regarded as correct. So far as we know, the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton at the present time spell the name either Presbrey or Presby. Whichever way it may be spelled it is unmistakably the same family patronymic.

CHARACTER OF THE PRESBREYS

The Presbreys belong to the old English Pilgrim and Puritan race that settled New England, a race whose sturdy character, political and religious principles caused them to be regarded by historians as the best class of colonists that ever laid the foundations of church and state in any new country. It is interesting to note that the five or six generations of the descendants of William Presbrey have quite generally married into families whose ancestors were living in the old Plymouth or Massachusetts Bay Colony previous to 1650. Such names as Smith, Baker, White, Wilbor, Pratt, Dean, Leonard, Newton, Flagg, Waite, Warren, Brewster, Severance, Kenniston, Johnson, and many others that might be mentioned indicate that a large measure of the worthy blood that flowed in the veins of the people who made the early history of New England great, now flows in the veins of the present generations of Presbreys and Presbys. We may be regarded as thoroughbred Yankees. It is not known that our ancestors in England ever had a coat of arms. The ancestors of the Presbreys in England belonged to neither the proletarian or the patrician class, but to the more numerous and useful bourgeois class, the sturdy middle class of society. Abraham Lincoln said: "The Lord loves the common people or he would not have made so many of them." This class has furnished most of the mechanics, farmers, traders, soldiers, sailors and other useful and reliable citizens, who have carried on the business of the world. Of good moral character generally, industrious and reliable, most of the descendants of William Presbrey yet manifest many of the good characteristics of their colonial ancestors.

The philoprogenitive instinct appears to have been strong in many of the members of the family. We have the records of families of sixteen or seventeen children. Families of ten or twelve children were not uncommon two or three generations ago. The descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton are now counted literally by the hundreds. They are scattered all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the dominion of Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. The first William Presbrey was a sailor, and a number of his descendants of the earlier generations were sailors and captains of trading vessels. There have been several physicians, two or three lawyers, half a dozen preachers of the gospel, several authors, a few newspaper men, a number of teachers, several legislators, many in various official positions besides many mechanics, manufacturers, merchants, bankers, and men in all useful lines of industry. A Christian in the early days was pleading in the presence of the emperor in defence of his people and said: "We are but of yesterday, and yet we have filled many places in your realm, in cities, castles, islands, camps, the senate and the forum." Something like this might be said concerning the deseendants of William Presbrey of Taunton. The citizens of Taunton and vicinity have always been noted for their patriotism. In October, 1774, they unfurled their banner on Taunton Green, bearing the motto: "Liberty and Union, Union and Liberty." The patriotic sentiment was so pronounced that Gov. Gage requested Col. Gilbert of Freetown to enlist a company of men to intimidate the patriots. He raised three hundred men, but did not succeed in putting out the patriotic fire that was burning in the breasts of Taunton people. They denounced Gilbert as an enemy of his country and a traitor and finally drove him out of the country as a notorious tory. Taunton people did their part in the war for independence. The Presbreys were no exception to the patriotic rule. There were only six Presbreys in Taunton of military age at the time of the revolution, and every one of them enlisted in the service of the colonists. There has not been a war since in which the United States has been concerned but that Presbreys and Presbys have been found among those who responded to their country's call and followed the colors.

Some one has said: "trace your ancestry back a few generations and you will find a gallows and a member of the family hanging on it." That might be found true in some families, but it is not true of the deseendants of William Presbrey. We have found no record of any one in our family who has ever been tried in court for any crime or misdemeanor, or been sentenced to prison. We do not by any means claim that all have been saints or angels, or even perfect in character; but the members of this family for several generations have ranked among the steady, law abiding, industrious class of citizens who have helped to develop the resources and business interests of this country and make this Republic a model among the nations. Like most of the settlers in the Old Colony, the Presbreys were immigrants from England, and just the right kind of people to subdue the wilderness and plant the institutions of civil and religious liberty in the new world.

EXPLANATION OF ARRANGEMENT AND ABBREVIATIONS

The names are numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals. The names of the children in each family group are given Roman numerals, indicating the chronological order of their birth. In most cases those having no children, whether married or not, have their record given in the family group only. Those having children are briefly recorded in the family group, and their more complete history is given as the head of a family in the next generation, where their name is printed in capitals and their consecutive number repeated in parenthesis. The numbers in the index refer, not to the page, but to the consecutive number given each person in the record. This arrangement will enable any one to readily find the record of any person named in the book.

Such abbreviations as are commonly used in genealogies are employed, such as: b. born, m. married, d. died, dau. daughter, unm. unmarried, and res. residence or resided. Any other abbreviations that may be found are regarded as common and self explanatory.

(1). WILLIAM PRESBREY of London, England and Taunton, Mass. Immigrant.

According to his own statement as preserved by his sons and grandsons, William Presbrey was born in London, England, in 1690. We have no information concerning his ancestors, but the fact that he was placed on board of a British man-of-war when only ten years old may indicate that the family belonged to the great common class of English people of that time. Genealogists have found it difficult to trace the ancestry of immigrants who came from London, and the youthfulness of William Presbrey when he left home makes it unusually difficult to trace his ancestry. It is thought that the family lived in that part of London known as Blackfriars.

Among the papers that came into the hands of the executor of the estate of Captain Seth Presbrey of Taunton, a great-grandson of William, was a paper bearing the following title:— "To the Generations of Presbreys in Coming Time, I Bequeathe This Genealogical Document." It is stated that the paper was first written in 1825, rewritten in 1839, and rewritten again in 1845. No copy of the edition of 1825 has been found. The copies written in 1839 and in 1845 are both preserved in the archives of the Old Colony Historical Society at Taunton. The two papers are substantially the same, differing only in the statement of some of the minor details of the story. We give here a brief statement of the story so as to include all the essential facts given in both papers. When only ten years old William Presbrey was impressed or bound out to serve on a British man-of-war until he should be of age. We are not informed as to the name of the ships or vessels on which he sailed, what waters he navigated, or what shores he visited. He served in the navy about eleven years, or until the summer of 1711, when his ship visited American waters and stopped a short time in Boston Harbor. Boston was then only a straggling colonial village. The country looked good to the young man, William Presbrey, and the spirit of freedom arose in his soul. Having permission to go ashore to "See Boston," and feeling that he had rendered enforced service on the man-of-war long enough, he quietly slipped away in the determination to try his fortunes in the new country. With buoyant spirits and a new sense of liberty, he passed out through what is now Roxbury, and took his course in a southerly direction. He kept to the forests and out of sight of human beings as much as possible, subsisting upon nuts and berries, perhaps gnawing the bark from black birch twigs, for about three days, when he arrived in Taunton. Knowing that by that time his ship had sailed and that he was free, he ventured to apply for food and employment. He first stopped at the house of Nathaniel Crossman, who lived on what is now Cohannet Street, nearly opposite where the "Auditorium" now stands. Crossman's house was near where the Hazelton house now is, possibly a little nearer Mill River, where there was a mill. Mr. Crossman was a farmer, miller and shoe-maker. William Presbrey hired out to Mr. Crossman as man of all work. We know not how long he worked for Mr. Crossman or what wages he received.

We infer that he was industrious and frugal, because a few years later he bought land and built a house at a place then called Spring Brook, nearly a mile north of Taunton Green. The place is located in the forks of Broadway and Bay Street. Broadway was then known as the Boston Turnpike. The Plain Cemetery is now on the opposite side of Broadway. It is said that the remains of the old cellar of William Presbrey's house could be seen in 1845. Subsequently a blacksmith's shop occupied the site, the last occupant of which was Mr. McHugh. In 1915 the old blacksmith's shop was raised up and remodelled for a tenement, and a cement story built under it for a store. On the front of the building may now be seen the sign of "The New York Standard Oil Co." When William Presbrey built his house here the Plain Cemetery had not been started. Rev. Samuel Danforth, pastor of the First Congregational church, is said to have been the first person buried here in 1727. The land was secured and the cemetery laid out in 1848. It is supposed that William Presbrey was buried in this cemetery, but his grave is not marked and is not now known.

It is said that William Presbrey built one of the first properly rigged vessels to navigate the Taunton River. It was a sloop. He built it at Benjamin King's landing at Raynham, then a part of Taunton.

Some have expressed doubt about the story of William Presbrey's service on a British man-of-war and his desertion from it. However, a careful study of all the related facts and weighing of the evidence, fully convinces us that there is no reason to doubt the truthfulness of the story as related in the genealogical document left by Capt. Seth Presbrey. A careful examination of the files of "The Boston News Letter" preserved in the Library of the Boston Athenaeum shows that such British ships frequently made short visits to Boston and that the desertion of sailors and servants was a common occurrence. In nearly every issue of "The Boston News-Letter" may be seen advertisements for runaway servants and sailors, and the offer of a reward for their capture and return. No such advertisement of the desertion of William Presbrey is found, probably because his desertion took place so near the time for the vessel to sail that there was not time to get an advertisement printed and receive any response to it. At that time there was such enmity between England and France that French privateers were seizing English commercial vessels. It was not safe for an English merchant vessel to cross the Atlantic without being convoyed by a British man-of-war. In the Boston News Letter of August 6, 1711, we find the following item of news: "Her Majesty's ships of war, under the command of Hon. Sir Hovenden Walker, Knight and Admiral, with the bomb ships, transports and tenders, of about eighty sail, set sail on Monday last." That was July 30, 1711, which would be just the time to correspond with the time when William Presbrey is said to have taken his liberty, and it seems quite likely that he came on one of those vessels. There were so many of them that his absence might not be as soon noticed as it otherwise would have been. He may have been supposed to have been on one of the vessels and his absence not positively known until the fleet was under sail or well out at sea.

It seems proper here to mention one consideration that puts what has been called the desertion of William Presbrey from the British navy in a more favorable light than some have been inclined to regard it. His being impressed or indentured for service on a man-of-war was equivalent to being "bound out" until he was of age to learn a trade, which was a common practice in those days. Parents often "bound out" their children in that way as apprentices. When William Presbrey landed in Boston he was twenty-one years of age. He had served his full time of apprenticeship as a sailor or marine and was justly, if not legally, entitled to his liberty, and he simply took what was his by right without any red tape process or formality.

The authenticity and credibility of the genealogical document left by Capt. Seth Presbrey, Jr., concerning his great-grandfather and his descendants is greatly strengthened when we take into consideration the facts that William Presbrey died in 1771, at the ripe age of eighty-one years and that at that time his grandson, Capt. Seth Presbrey, was nineteen years of age, and probably heard the story from the lips of his grandfather, William. Capt. Seth Presbrey senior died in 1833. Very likely he was the writer of the genealogical document in 1825, and his son, Capt. Seth Presbrey, Jr., wrote or copied the editions of 1839 and 1845. We are thus assured that the story of William Presbrey's advent in this country is supported by documentary evidence and corroborative facts that would readily be received in a court of law.

About 1725 William Presbrey married Hannah Smith, dau. of Nathaniel and Experience Smith of Taunton. It is said that the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Samuel Danforth, who was at that time pastor of the First Church in Taunton, and who was buried two years later near the residence of William Presbrey in what is now the Plain Cemetery. It is supposed that William Presbrey and his wife are buried in this cemetery, but their graves can not now be located. Hannah Smith was born in Weymouth, March 29, 1687. Her parents moved from Weymouth to Taunton about 1690. Her father, Nathaniel Smith, was a son of James Smith and was born in Weymouth June 8, 1639. Thus William Presbrey married into one of the oldest families of the Old Colony. Hannah (Smith) Presbrey died Sept. 20, 1763. At the time of their marriage they were of mature age, he being thirty-five and she thirty-eight. Three children were born to them, two sons and one daughter. The sons married and had families. The daughter died unmarried when about twenty years of age.

An old English bullseye watch, made by J. Edmonds, Liverpool, is now in possession of Alton L. Presbrey of Taunton. It is said to have been in possession of the Presbreys ever since 1712. If that is true the watch must have been owned by the first William Presbrey, and if not brought by him to this country, he must have purchased it within a year after his arrival here. It is an interesting old family heir-loom.

FIRST GENERATION

2. i. William Presbrey, b. 1726, d. 1773.
3. ii. Joseph Presbrey, b. 1727, d. 1802.
4. iii. Hannah Presbrey, b. 1730, d. when about twenty years of age, unm.

SECOND GENERATION

(2). WILLIAM PRESBREY, son of William and Hannah (Smith) Presbrey, b. 1726, d. 1773, m. about 1745, Mary White, dau. of Thomas and Abigail (Crossman) White of Taunton. She was b. about 1724, and d. Jan. 1, 1798. A record is found as follows: "April 18, 1747, William Presbrey and Mary his wife, which Mary was one of the daughters of Thomas White, late of Taunton, deceased, made a conveyance to her brother, Abraham White of Taunton."

William Presbrey was Captain of a coasting vessel, and also a shoemaker. He lived in that part of Taunton known as the Weir, near where the store of Herbert Q. Presbrey now is.

Aug. 19, 1773. James Briggs, Jr., John Crane and Abraham White, appraisers, reported the inventory of William Presbrey's property as valued at 439 pounds, 11 shillings and 9 pence. Mary Presbrey, the widow, was appointed administrator of the estate. She rendered her account Apr. 22, 1776, and reported a balance of 113 pounds, 4 shillings and 5 pence. The son, William Presbrey, receive 230 pounds.

William Presbrey lived to be only forty seven years of age, dying only two years after his father, the first William. However, he was the father of eleven children, all of whom, except two, lived to mature years. It was then that the Presbreys began to multiply.

5. i. William Presbrey, b. 1746, d. Mar. 5, 1832.
6. ii. Mary Presbrey, b. 1747, d. Aug. 15, 1832.
7. iii. John Presbrey, b. Nov. 15, 1749, d. Nov. 19, 1749.
8. iv. Elizabeth Presbrey, b. July 11, 1751, d. May 1, 1816.
9. v. Seth Presbrey, b. Sept. 17, 1752, d. Dec. 15, 1833.
10. iv. Lydia Presbrey, b. July 10, 1753, d. Jan. 7, 1824.
11. vii. Abigail Presbrey, b. 1755, d. 1836.
12. viii. John Presbrey, b. 1756, d. May 24, 1845.
13. ix. Simeon Presbrey, b. 1758, d. Mar. 6, 1840.

(3). JOSEPH PRESBREY, son of William and Hannah (Smith) Presbrey, b. 1727, d. 1802, m. Nov. 21, 1745, Mary Baker.

dau. of Thomas and Abigail (White) Baker of Taunton. She was b. June 1, 1727, and was second cousin to Mary White who married Joseph's elder brother William. Both of these women were descendants of early colonial families.

Joseph Presbrey was a carpenter, or house joiner, as he was then called. He not only worked industriously at this trade but was interested in real estate. Between 1748 and 1786 his name appears a number of times in the records of deeds both as grantee and grantor. Such interest in real estate has been a marked characteristic of many of the Presbreys in all the subsequent generations. Many of the descendants of William Presbrey have been sailors; but the descendants of his brother, Joseph, have generally been carpenters, farmers, mechanics and engaged in various kinds of business. None of the descendants of Joseph have taken to life on the water.

A brother of the first William, named Joseph, lived in Taunton, 1714 to 1771, and was a party to a number of transfers of real estate. While this uncle lived Joseph Presbrey had the suffix, Jr., written after his name to distinguish him from his uncle, after whom evidently he was named. After the death of his uncle in 1771, the Jr. does not appear after his name. Feb. 7, 1765, Joseph Presbrey, senior, conveyed to Joseph Presbrey, Jr., property in Taunton, consideration, friendship and good will. This seems to indicate that the elder Joseph having no descendants to whom to leave his property, gave some of it to his nephew and namesake. His wife had died previous to the date of this deed, and his daughter, an only child, had died a number of years before. He was then an old man, nearly eighty years of age. The Presbreys now living in Taunton and vicinity are all descendants of William. The descendants of Joseph have scattered widely over the country.

THIRD GENERATION

(5). WILLIAM PRESBREY, son of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. Dec. 3, 1747, d. Mar. 5, 1832, m. 1st, Lydia Pratt, dau. of Nehemiah and Abigail (Newland) Pratt of Taunton. The date of their marriage has not been found, but it probably was about 1771, as their first child was born in 1772. The date of her death has not been found, but as she was the mother of William Presbrey's four children, the last of whom was born in 1784, she died subsequent to that date, probably 1800 or later. He m. 2nd, Jan. 11, 1814, Rhoda Snow, dau. of Reuben Snow of Mansfield. She was b. Mar. 20, 1769, d. Oct. 27, 1860, age 91 years.

William Presbrey had three brief periods of service in the Revolutionary army. First as a private in Capt. Robert Crossman's Co., Col. George Williams' rgt., enlisted Dec. 8, 1776, discharged Dec. 20, 1776, service sixteen days including travel from Howland's Ferry home to Taunton. The company marched from Taunton to Warren, R. I. via Rehoboth, Dec. 8, 1776, on an alarm. Again he served as a private in Capt. Rufus Barney's company. Col. Josiah Whitney's regt. service from July 29, 1778 to Sept. 10, 1778, one month and thirteen days in Rhode Island. He also served as acting midshipman on the Continental frigate "Deane" commanded by Capt. Samuel Nicholson, engaged May 3, 1782, service to May 31, 1782, twenty-eight days. See Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors, vol. XII, pp. 797, 798.

William Presbrey was a sailor and became the Captain of a coasting vessel. He lived at the Weir. Nov. 4, 1788, his mother, Mary Presbrey, widow, conveyed to him property in Taunton. In 1793, the three brothers, William, John and Seth Presbrey, together purchased several pieces of property in Taunton. Dec. 8, 1831, a relative petitioned the court to appoint a guardian for William Presbrey, because he was regarded as non compos mentis. William Seaver and Charles Presbrey were appointed guardians. This indicates that as he was then 84 years of age, his mind was failing so that he was incapacitated from doing business. A few months later he died of old age.

(6). MARY PRESBREY (called Molly and Polly), dau. of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. 1747, d. Aug. 15, 1832, m. 1772, Francis Goward. He was born in England. It is said that when Francis was a small child, for some reason not known now, he was placed in a leather bag and smuggled on board of a ship which was about to sail for America. As soon as the ship was well out at sea he was liberated from the leather bag and brought safely to this country. After their marriage Francis and Mary (Presbrey) Goward settled on a farm in the south east part of the town of Easton, Mass. The house in which they lived is yet standing, little changed and well preserved. Many descendants are now living in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

(9). SETH PRESBREY, son of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. Sept. 17, 1752, d. Dec. 15, 1833, m. Dec. 23, 1779, Sarah Pratt, dau. of Nehemiah Pratt. She was b. 1753, d. May 21, 1834.

Capt. Seth Presbrey was a Revolutionary soldier. He is recorded on the pay roll of Sergeant Enos Dean's detachment of guards: service one day, by order of the Committee of Correspondence, &c., in order to prevent the escape of Highlanders and other prisoners from Taunton Jail during the alarm of Dec. 8, 1776. "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War", vol. XII; p. 735.

He was a sailor and master of a vessel. He sailed on the sloop Ranger, and on the sloop Peace and Plenty. Sept. 5, 1793, Joseph Hood made six transfers of property in Taunton to William, Seth and John Presbrey. This consisted of land, houses and mill property.

(10). LYDIA PRESBREY, dau. of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. July 10, 1753, d. Jan. 1824, m. June 13, 1776, Samuel Hoskins. He was b. Sept. 9, 1753. They lived for a time at Granville, Washington County, N. Y., and 1799 moved from Granville to Scipio, Cayuga County, N. Y., where they resided the rest of their lives. The old homestead in Scipio is now in possession of a descendant. The will of Samuel Hoskins was dated June 24, 1824, and was admitted to probate June 27, 1825. Oct. 1824, Samuel Hoskins, sen., deeded to Samuel Hoskins, Jr., fifty acres of land in Scipio. Samuel Hoskins was named as executor of the will. All we know of the children is their names as given in the will. His wife is not mentioned in the will, consequently it is inferred that she died previous to the date of the will. It may be that the names of the children are not given here in the order of their birth.

(12). JOHN PRESBREY, son of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. Feb. 1756, d. May 24, 1845, m. 1st, Mar. 1, 1780, Prudence Pratt, dau. of Nehemiah and Abigail (Newland) Pratt. She was b. 1758, d. June 6, 1826. He m. 2nd, about 1827, Ruth Soper, dau. of Capt. Oliver Soper. She was b. Jan. 22, 1770, d. Dec. 22, 1852, when she was fatally burned by her clothing taking fire.

John Presbrey's services as a soldier in the war for independence is recorded in "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War", Vol. XII, Dec. 8, 1776, in Sergt. Enos Dean's detachment of guards, service one day by order of Committee of Correspondence, &c. to prevent the escape of Highlanders and other prisoners from Taunton jail during the alarm of Dec. 8, 1776, p. 747. Again, a private in Capt. Robert Crossman's Co. Col. George Williams' regt. Enlisted Dec. 15, 1776, discharged Dec. 30, 1776, service 17 days including travel from Newland's Ferry home to Taunton. "The Co. marched from Taunton to Warren, R. I. via Rehoboth on an alarm." p. 797. Again he served in Capt. Edward Blake's Co. service 32 days at Rhode Island, Co. marched from Taunton Sept. 29, 1777, under command of Col. George Williams, on a secret expedition, and was discharged Oct. 29, 1777, by Gen. Spencer. He was a corporal in Capt. Matthew Randall's Co. Col. John Daggett's regt. Enlisted Jan. 7, 1778, discharged Apr. 1, 1778, service two months and 26 days at Rhode Island. Again he served in Capt. Rufus Barney's Co. "Col. Carpenter's regt. service four days on an alarm, Co. detached to march to Tiverton, R. I., July 28, 1780, for six days service."

John Presbrey was a sailor and master of a vessel. With his brothers, William and Seth, he was part owner of the sloop Ranger. He also joined with his brothers, William and Seth, in the purchase of considerable property in Taunton. These three brothers appear to have been close associates in business, and joint owners of considerable property.

(13). SIMEON PRESBREY, son of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. 1758, d. Mar. 6, 1840, m. June 17, 1781, Annie Newland. She was b. in 1758, d. Mar. 21, 1814. They lived many years in Norton, but spent the later years of life in Taunton. He was a carpenter, and worked at that trade until declining health compelled him to cease work.

Simeon Presbrey was a Revolutionary soldier. He was a private in Capt. Robert Crossman's Co. Col. George Williams' regt. enlisted Dec. 8, 1776, discharged Dec. 20, 1776, service 16 days including travel from Newland's Ferry home to Taunton, company marched from Taunton to Warren, R. I., via Rehoboth, Dec. 8, 1776, on an alarm. "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War", Vol.. XII, p. 797. He was only eighteen years old when he enlisted. He served in the same company with his brothers, William, Seth and John, and his cousin Joseph. It is a fact worthy of notice that every Presbrey of military age residing in Taunton at the time was enrolled for service in the war for independence. A record has been found stating Simeon Presbrey died in Vermont, the town not named. It may be that the town was Westminster, Vt. because that town was settled in 1736 by people from Taunton and was at first called Taunton.

(14). LEVI PRESBREY, son of William and Mary (White) Presbrey, b. 1760, d. 1800, m. Oct. 15, 1785, Lina Pratt, dau. of Nehemiah and Abigail (Newland) Pratt.

Two or three references have been found in which Levi Presbrey is called a Doctor. If he ever studied medicine it is not known with whom he studied. It may have been with some practicing physician, as it was customary to do in those days, and supplement such study by attending a course of lectures in some medical school. Very likely he did not take the course of lecturers in any medical school or receive the degree of M. D. or ever practice medicine. We know that he was a school teacher and a land surveyor.

Levi Presbrey was a Revolutionary soldier. He enlisted in the company of which the man who became his father-in-law was Captain, Nehemiah Pratt's, Col. Mitchell's rgt., commanded by Lieut. Col. James Williams, Brigadier George Godfrey's brigade, Bristol County, services 8 days. Company marched to Tiverton, R. I., on the alarm of Aug. 2, 1780. Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War. Vol. XII, p. 735.

In 1795 or '96, Levi Presbrey, with his wife and two children, moved to Livingston County, N. Y., and settled near Livonia. That part of the country was then sparcely populated. There were vast forests abounding in wild beasts. In the winter of 1800, while on a surveying expedition in Canada, he attempted to go on horseback from one place to another on a very cold night, was overtaken by a blizzard and frozen to death. His widow

m. 2nd Edward Thayer of Conway, Mass., where they res. Her subsequent history is not known. The will of Nehemiah Pratt of Taunton, Dec. 10, 1813, mentions his daughter Lina, wife of Edward Thayer. Mr. Thayer was a Revolutionary soldier, and in the records is credited to Wrentham, Mass. He received a grant of land in Western Mass., as a pension.

72. i. A daughter was b. in Taunton in 1787. The list of families in the first census of the United States, 1790, mentions Levi Presbrey of Taunton as having a daughter and a son. We have not been able to find the name of the daughter. She went with the family to Livingston County, N. Y., about 1795, after which nothing is known of her. It has been said that she did not marry, and died young, perhaps in Livingston County.

73. ii. Otis Presbrey, b. Sept. 23, 1789, d. Dec. 18, 1850.

(16). JOSEPH PRESBREY, son of Joseph and Mary (Baker) Presbrey, b. 1746, m. about 1765, Patty Perkins of Connecticut. The date and place of her birth and the names of her parents have not been found.

Joseph Presbrey was a Revolutionary soldier, and had two brief terms of service as the following records copied from "The Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War" show. "Joseph Presbrey, Taunton, private, Capt. Robert Crossman's Co., Col. George Williams' regt., enlisted Dec. 8, 1776, discharged Dec. 20, 1776, services sixteen days including travel from Howland's Ferry home to Taunton. Company marched from Taunton to Warren, R. I., via Rehoboth, Dec. 8, 1776 on an alarm," Vol. XII, p. 797. "Joseph Presbrey, private, Capt. Rufus Barney's Co., Col. Carpenter's regt. service four days on an alarm. Company detached to march to Tiverton, R. I., July 28, 1780, for six days service," Vol. XII, p. 747.

Dec. 1, 1771, Joseph Presbrey of Taunton bought fifty acres of land "in the Gore west of Stockbridge, Mass." Between that date and Apr. 15, 1778, he was a party in seven transfers of real estate in Alford, Mass. and vicinity. During the same years he was also a party in several transfers of real estate in Taunton, where he then resided. Apr. 15, 1778 he sold land in Alford, Mass. The transaction appears to have been made in Taunton, and his brother, Elisha Presbrey, signed the deed as a witness. Nov. 22, 1790, he sold two acres of land in Taunton to his brother Elisha. As his name does not appear in any later records at Taunton it is inferred that in 1790 or soon after that date he changed his residence from Taunton to western Massachusetts, where his son Joseph had settled several years before.

For many years the question: who was the father of William Presbrey, the founder of the Connecticut branch of the family, was unanswered. The Connecticut Presbreys have always said that their ancestor, William, came from Taunton, but they did not know the name of his father. The spelling of the name indicates that the ancestor of the Presbreys in Connecticut came from Taunton, as that spelling of the name does not come from any other family except the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton. We have found the dates of birth and other corroborative evidence that appears to prove that William Presbrey of Willington, Conn., was a son of Joseph Presbrey of Taunton, and a twin brother of Joseph Presbrey, Jr. William's mother was a Connecticut woman, and it seems that in early life he went to Connecticut to visit some of his mother's relatives and did not return to Taunton. This accounts for his name not appearing in the later records of Taunton, and for his children in Connecticut not knowing the name of their grandfather. No record of any children of Joseph Presbrey senior has been found except these twin sons.

Elisha Presbrey was a Revolutionary soldier, and gave three brief terms of service in the Massachusetts militia, as may be seen by the following records copied from "The Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War."

"Elisha Presbrey, pay roll of Sergt. Enos. Dean's detachment of guards, service one day by order of Committee of Correspondence, &c. in order to prevent the escape of Highlanders and other prisoners from Taunton Jail during the alarm of Dec. 8, 1776." Vol. XII: p. 747.

Elisha Presbrey lived in Raynham, where seven of his ten children were born. In the spring of 1794 he moved with his family to Keene, N. H. He bought land in Keene, July 8, 1794. About 1799 he moved with his family to Lyman, N. H., where he bought land, Apr. 22, 1799. In 1811 he went back to Keene, and lived for some time in Westmoreland, N. H. where some of his wife's relatives, the Wilburs lived. The date of his wife's death has not been found, but it is believed that she died in Westmoreland about 1813. Soon after that he returned to Lyman and spent his last years with his son Elisha in Lisbon, N. H. He died in Lisbon in 1825.

(19). PATTY PRESBREY (Martha), dau. of Joseph and Mary (Baker) Presbrey, b. 1752, d. —, m. Solomon Wilbur, son of Abijah and Phebe (White) Wilbur of Taunton. He was b. Nov. 19, 1752. The name of Patty Presbrey appears on a deed given by Samuel Parrish and James Baker to Joseph Presbrey of Taunton, Apr. 27, 1772. Her marriage must have been subsequent to this date. Several years after their marriage they moved to Troy, N. Y. Nov. 24, 1792, John Wilkinson deeded to Solomon Wilbur, lot 69 west side, First Street, Troy, N. Y. Jan.

10, 1797, Solomon Wilbur and his wife, Martha, deeded to Isaac Ford lot No. 250 in Troy. Nov. 28, 1804, Solomon Wilbur and his wife, Martha, deeded to Moses Bears, lot 69 in West Troy. The date of the death of Solomon Wilbur or that of his wife has not been found. Some of her relatives in Taunton received a report that she died at an advanced age and had several children. However, we have found no record of any children, except one son.

90. i. Solomon Wilbur, Jr., b. ——, d. ——, m. Rhoda ——. Aug. 25, 1809, Samuel Starr deeded to Solomon Wilbur, Jr., lot No. 264 West Troy, consideration, $3,400.00. July 26, 1811, Solomon Wilbur, Jr., and his wife, Rhoda, deeded to David Buel lot 264, West Troy. Oct. 27, 1820, Solomon Wilbur and his wife, Rhoda of Hudson, Columbia County, N. Y., deeded to David H. Stone of Troy, lot 20 west side of River St., Troy, consideration $1,000.00. Thus it appears that he moved to Hudson. The Jr. being attached to his name in 1820 indicates that his father was then living.

Reed. In 1859 he published a book entitled "The Mustee, or Love and Liberty." The book was designed to set forth the evils of slavery. It was not written in such a popular style as Uncle Tom's Cabin, but described in a more philosophical style some of the more subtle and base social evils of slavery. Mr. Presbrey's literary productions attracted the attention of the Concord school of Philosophers and led him to make several visits to them so that he formed the acquaintance of Alcott, Emerson, Hawthorne, Thoreau and Channing. No doubt Mr. Presbrey would have won further laurels in literature had he not died when only fifty eight years of age. He remained a bachelor and spent his life in Taunton.

Miles Standish of the Old Plymouth Colony. John Presbrey m. 2nd Mar. 25, 1846, Betsey Lothrop.

The following records show that John Presbrey and some of his brothers were leading members of the Masonic fraternity in Taunton. In the midst of the excitement concerning Masonry which spread like a wild-fire over the country on account of the Morgan affair, the following declaration was made and recorded, Dec. 31, 1831, by the Masonic Lodge of Taunton. "Should the people of this country become so infatuated as to deprive Masons of their civil rights in violation of the written Constitution, and the wholesome spirit of just laws and free government a vast majority of the fraternity would still remain firm in their confidence in God and in the rectitude of their intentions, as consolation under the trials to which they may be exposed." Among the names of the signers of this document appear the names of John Presbrey, Jr., and Seth Presbrey.

On account of the opposition which prevailed against Masonry, at a meeting of King David Lodge, Taunton, Mass., Oct. 13, 1836, the real estate which was owned by the fraternity was disposed of by deed, from which the following is quoted:— "Know all men by these presents, that I, John Presbrey of Taunton, in consideration of $535.00 to me paid by Samuel Crocker and Charles Richmond, have released and forever quit claim all rights and titles and interest which I have and hold, &c. &c. in behalf of the Master, Wardens and members of King David Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, &c." This deed was signed by John Presbrey, Worshipful Master, and Seth Presbrey, Past Master of King David Lodge.

(73). OTIS PRESBREY, son of Levi and Lina (Pratt) Presbrey, b. Sept. 23, 1789, at Taunton, Mass., d. Dec. 18, 1850, m. 1st, Apr. 20, 1819, Elizabeth Flagg of Conway, Mass., dau. of Eleazer and Elizabeth (Warren) Flagg. She was b. in Conway, Aug. 9, 1796, and d. in Livingston County, N. Y., Dec. 3, 1822. He m. 2nd, 1826, Lucy Wetmore, dau. of Bela Wetmore of Livonia, N. Y. She d. in York, Livingston County, N. Y., Jan. 1854.

Otis Presbrey was born in Taunton. When he was about five years old the family moved to Livingston County, N. Y.

After the death of his father, his mother married Edward Thayer of Conway, Mass. Otis was then eleven or twelve years old, and went with his mother to live in Conway where he had his residence until he married in 1819. About 1815 and '16, he travelled in Virginia and the Carolinas with Chandler Flagg and Eleazer Flagg. They were engaged in selling a variety of goods known as "Yankee notions." Otis Presbrey was with the Flagg brothers in the theater at Richmond, Va., when the theater burned and sixty persons perished. The three young men escaped, one of the Flaggs with a broken leg. Soon after his marriage in 1819, Otis Presbrey moved to York, Livingston County, N. Y., where he spent the rest of his life on a farm. Between 1824 and 1842 he bought several pieces of land in what was known as "the forty thousand acre tract." Sept. 20, 1842, Otis Presbrey made a general assignment of all his property, real and personal, to John Russ and Holoway Long as trustees. He stated in the assignment that if properly sold, the property would bring enough to pay all his debts and leave a surplus. The balance left after settlement amounted to $989.00. Feb. 24, 1850, Otis Presbrey and Lucy, his wife, as heirs of Bela Wetmore late of Livonia, gave a quitclaim deed to their interest in twenty-six acres of land in Livonia, consideration: $3.00. Otis Presbrey had nine children, the first two by his first wife, Elizabeth Flagg.

202. i. Otis Fletcher Presbrey, b. Dec. 20, 1820, d. Aug. 20, 1900.

203. ii. Sarah Ann Presbrey, b. Aug. 15, 1822, d. Sept. 24, 1822.

204. iii. William N. Presbrey, b. 1828, d. subsequent to 1853, because Sept. 14, 1853, he conveyed to Otis F. Presbrey of Buffalo, N. Y., his undivided interest in the property of his mother, Lucy Presbrey, consideration, $100. It is supposed that he died within two or three years after that date. Unm.

205. iv. Levi T. Presbrey, b. 1830, d. ——. He was living in 1853, as on Sept. 14, 1853, he conveyed to Elijah Wetmore of Springwater his undivided interest in the real and personal property of his mother, Lucy Presbrey. This is the latest record found of him.

206. v. Wells Presbrey, b. 1832, d. about 1850, unm.

207. vi. Elizabeth Flagg Presbrey, b. 1834, d. ——. Oct. 10, 1854, Elizabeth F. Presbrey, Elijah Wetmore and his wife of Springwater, N. Y., conveyed to James Stevenson of Livonia their interest in land in Livonia, which was of the estate of Lucy Presbrey, deceased.

208. vii. Mary Hack Presbrey, b. May 24, 1836, d. 1890.

209. viii. Nancy Joslyn Presbrey (known as Carrie) b. Mar. 27, 1838, d. Oct. 7, 1888.

210. ix. John C. Presbrey, b. July 6, 1841, d. Jan. 14, 1864. Oct. 6, 1854, Otis F. Presbrey of Buffalo, guardian for infants, Nancy J. and John C. Presbrey, sold to James Stevenson of Livonia their interest in land in Livonia as heirs of Lucy Presbrey, deceased, consideration $502.

John C. Presbrey was a soldier in the civil war. His military record is as follows: Enlisted at Leroy, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1861, as a private in Co. B. one hundredth N. Y. Infantry. Captured in action at Morris Island, S. C., July 18, 1863, died a prisoner of war at Richmond, Va., Jan. 14, 1864. Unm.

(74). JOSEPH PRESBREY, son of Joseph and Patty (Perkins) Presbrey, b. in Taunton, Mass., Oct. 3, 1767, d. in Lanesboro, Mass., June 3, 1845, m. July 7, 1790, Martha Picket, who was b. Nov. 30, 1773, and d. at Lanesboro, Mass., Dec. 31, 1842. Aug. 18, 1787, Joseph Presbrey of Taunton, Mass., gave a deed of land in Taunton to his son, Joseph Presbrey, Jr. The young man was then about twenty-one years of age. It appears that within a year or two after that date he went to Berkshire County, Mass., where he was married July 7, 1790. His father, Joseph Presbrey of Taunton, had been interested in real estate transactions in Berkshire County for a number of years previous to that time. "Dec. 1, 1771, Deodat Ingersoll of the Green land west of Stockbridge" deeded fifty acres of land "in the Gore west of Stockbridge", to Joseph Presbrey of Taunton. From this date to 1778, Joseph Presbrey senior was a party to ten transfers of real estate in that vicinity. Between 1793 and 1842, Joseph Presbrey, Jr., was a party to many transfers of real estate in Alford, Lenox and Lanesboro, Mass. A deed is recorded in the County Clerk's office at Canandaigua, N. Y., dated Feb. 20, 1816, when William Perin of Lenox, Mass., sold land in the town of Brighton, N. Y., to Joseph Presbrey of Lenox, Mass. This may indicate that Joseph Presbrey knew of his relatives in central New York, and had some thought of joining them, but did not. As we have seen, Joseph Presbrey was a twin brother of William Presbrey who spent many years in Willington, Conn. The evidence that seems to establish this fact is more fully presented in the sketches of Joseph senior and William.

211. i. Fanny Presbrey, b. Apr. 30, 1793, d. ——, m. Oct, 1, 1816, Daniel Bradley. It appears that like her father, Joseph Presbrey, she had some drawing towards that part of New York where their relatives lived, because, Feb. 20, 1816, she purchased land in Ontario County, N. Y. We have found no further record of her or of her husband, except the record of the birth of a daughter, Martha Bradley, b. Jan. 27, 1821, and who m. Jehileman Shaw, a brother of Edward M. Presbrey's wife, of Bridgeport, Conn.

212. ii. George Hiram Presbrey, b. July 17, 1805, d. Dec. 10, 1859.

(75). WILLIAM PRESBREY, son of Joseph and Patty (Perkins) Presbrey, b. in Taunton, Mass., Oct. 3, 1767, d. in Willington, Conn., Apr. 21, 1830, m. ——, Elizabeth Thompson of Connecticut. She was b. Jan. 2, 1774. William Presbrey was a farmer and spent his life in Willington, Tolland County, Conn.

For a long time search was made to ascertain who was the father of William. However, by putting this and that together and comparing records found in different places, this question now seems to be satisfactorily answered. All the descendants living in Connecticut have long been agreed that William Presbrey was born in Taunton, Mass., and that he came to Connecticut when quite young. It has been seen that the names of his parents and date of his birth fix him as a son of Joseph and Patty (Perkins) Presbrey of Taunton. An aunt of the writer who lived to be ninety-six years of age said her father had cousins living in Western Mass. and Conn., who were twin brothers. A son of William Presbrey of Willington, Conn., is known to have made a visit to his cousins in New Hampshire, when he visited the old lady referred to, Mrs. Eunice Wilbur (Presby) Ingerson of Jefferson, N. H. It appears that when he was but a boy, some of his mother's relatives took William Presbrey to Connecticut and he did not return to Taunton. His leaving Taunton when he was so young explains why so little record of him is found there.

219. vii. Johnson Presbrey, b. 1811, d. April 2, 1873, unm.

In 1853, Johnson Presbrey is recorded as paying taxes on 218 acres of land in Littleton, N. H. The assessed valuation of the land was $1200. It is evident that he did not live in Littleton because he was not assessed any tax except on the land, and he paid that only one year. The inference is that he went to visit his cousins in New Hampshire and bargained for some land, but concluded not to remain there and returned to Connecticut. This must have been Johnson Presbrey, son of William of Willington, Conn., as the name Johnson has not been found elsewhere.

(80). ELIJAH PRESBREY, son of Elisha and Wealthy (Wilbur) Presbrey, b. in Taunton, Mass., Aug. 3, 1779, d. in Lyman, N. H., 1825, m. Nov. 26, 1801, Hannah Parker, dau. of Solomon Parker, Jr., of Lyman, N. H., res. in Lyman. Mr. Presbrey was a prosperous farmer. When his father, Elisha Presbrey, moved from Taunton, Mass., to Keene, N. H., Elijah was about fifteen years old. He went a few years later with his family to Lyman, where he spent all of his mature life.

(81). ELISHA PRESBREY, son of Elisha and Wealthy (Wilbur) Presbrey, b. in Taunton, Mass., Sept. 21, 1782, d. in Lunenburg, Vt., Feb. 11, 1853, m. about 1805, Hannah Wilbur, dau. of Job and Charity (Wilbur) Wilbur of Westmoreland, N. H. She was b. May 14, 1783, and d. in Lunenburg, Vt., July 13, 1865.

Elisha Presbrey was regarded as a thrifty man of means in his day. He lived a number of years in Lisbon, N. H., where he owned a tannery and shoe shop, moved to Lunenburg, Vt., where he owned a tannery and spent the last years of his life on one of the finest farms in that part of the Connecticut River Valley. After his decease his property was appraised at about ten thousand dollars. Elisha Presbrey and his wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal church, liberal supporters, and punctual attendants upon the services of the church.

(82). SAMUEL PRESBY, son of Elisha and Wealthy (Wilbur) Presbrey, b. Sept. 7, 1785, in Taunton, Mass., d. in Lunenburg, Vt., Aug. 21, 1856, m. 1808, Eunice Wilbur, dau. of Job and Charity (Wilbur) Wilbur of Westmoreland, N. H. She was b. in Westmoreland, 1789, and d. in Lunenburg, Vt., Aug. 6, 1856. She was a sister of Hannah Wilbur, Elisha Presbrey's wife, and was a cousin of somewhat distant degree to her husband. Samuel Presbrey was nine years old when his father moved from Taunton to Keene, N. H. For a number of years after his marriage Samuel Presbrey lived on a farm near Cowen's Pond in Lyman, N. H. He moved from there to Lunenburg, Vt., where he spent the rest of his life. About this time some of the Presbreys of New Hampshire began to spell their name the shorter way, viz: Presby. However not all of the generation of this time changed the spelling. Elisha Presbrey never changed his name, and on his tomb stone it is spelled Presbrey. All the generations in New Hampshire since the fourth generation have spelled the name Presby. When Elisha Presbrey moved from Taunton to Keene, N. H., in 1794, there were several families living in Bradford, N. H., who spelled the name Presby. They were not related to our family, but it may be that their spelling of the name had some influence in changing the spelling of our name.

(202). OTIS FLETCHER PRESBREY, son of Otis and Elizabeth (Flagg) Presbrey, b. Dec. 20, 1820, at York, Livingston County, N. Y., d. Aug. 20, 1900. His grandfather, Levi Presbrey, settled in Livingston County when the Wilderness had been broken by only a few of the early settlers.

When only two years old, Otis F. Presbrey was left motherless. Like many country boys, his educational advantages were quite limited, consisting of a three months winter term each year, where little besides "the three R's" was taught. When sixteen years of age he experienced religion and united with the Presbyterian church. When about eighteen he spent ten weeks in a private school, where one of his esteemed schoolmates was Chester A. Arthur, afterwards President of the United States. About that time he cherished an earnest desire to obtain a college education and prepare for the ministry; but his father having married again, the needs of an increasing family to be supplied demanded his services on the farm until he had attained his majority.

When nineteen he taught a winter school, after which he taught several winters. July 24, 1841, he was commissioned second Lieutenant in the seventh New York militia. In 1842 he spent twenty weeks at the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, N. Y., which finished his education in the preparatory schools. Turning his attention to medicine, he pursued the required studies, and Nov. 16, 1846, graduated, M. D., at the Berkshire Medical College, Pittsfield, Mass. This medical college was at that time the medical department of Williams College. He took up the practice of medicine at Clarkson, N. Y., where he married, Feb. 3, 1847, Sarah Ann Johnson, dau. of Luther Hartwell and Celine (Smith) Johnson. She was b. at Wampsville, Madison County, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1828, and d. at Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1896.

In the winter of 1850, Mr. Presbrey took a post-graduate course in medicine in the Buffalo Medical College. He continued to reside in Buffalo until 1870. He held several official or business positions at different times, such as: clerk of the school board, clerk of the board of health, and city clerk. He purchased a half interest in a prescription drug store. For a time he was the manager of a fire insurance company. He was also interested in real estate. He was very much interested in the growth of the city of Buffalo, and was foremost in securing the right of way and in building the first street railway in Buffalo, and was the first secretary of the corporation. He was a promoter of the international bridge across the river at Niagara Falls, and spent part of two winters in the legislature of New York, and in the Canadian Parliament in securing the charters. He was a director in the Canadian Southern Railway. In 1862 he received a commission from President Lincoln as Assessor of Internal Revenue for Buffalo and Erie County. The second year of his term of office he was also appointed special agent of the Treasury Department, and in the prosecution of his duties uncovered extensive frauds in the management of the revenues in Dubuque, Iowa, and other western cities. In 1869 he was appointed by General Grant, Supervisor of Internal Revenue for the District embracing Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, with his headquarters at Richmond, Va. General Canby, who was at that time head of the military department appointed Mr. Presbrey a member of the Common Council of Richmond. In 1870 he resigned his commission as Collector of Internal Revenue, and opened his office in Washington as attorney for the prosecution of claims against the Revenue Department. About this time he moved with his family from Buffalo to Washington, where he was a deacon and superintendent of the Sunday school in the First Congregational church. During the struggles of this church in its early history, Otis F. Presbrey and his excellent wife were among the most steadfast and devoted of its friends. Feb. 4, 1874, he was elected a trustee of Howard University. He continued a member of the board of trustees for this institution twenty-one years. He was an influential member of the executive committee. During his long term of service his faith in the future of the University, even in its darkest days, was an inspiration to his associates on the executive committee. Dr. Nathan Whitcomb, the dentist whom Mr. Presbrey and his family had patronized in Buffalo, moved to Washington, and Mr. Presbrey seeing the need of educating colored men as dentists, induced Dr. Whitcomb to open rooms in the college for free dental service in the presence of the students. With the cooperation of Dr. Parsons, another dental surgeon, the foundation was laid for the dental department of Howard University, which has proved of great benefit in the education of the colored race.

In 1886, Otis F. Presbrey became associated with his son Frank in the conduct of "Public Opinion", a weekly journal which had been originated by Frank Presbrey, and which in a few years attained national importance and a large circulation. In 1892, Mr. Presbrey, with his family, moved to New York, where he became connected with "The New York Evangelist", and soon after he became its business manager. In April 1898 he was compelled by illness of a chronic nature to sever his connection with the Evangelist. He spent the greater part of the next two years at Dr. Strong's Sanitorium at Saratoga, where he passed into the future life, Aug. 20, 1900.

Otis F. Presbrey was a man of marked abilities and remarkable versatility. He lived an honored, strenuous and useful life. Even while failing health forbade his usual activity, he was intent upon doing good, and wrote, printed and distributed about two hundred and ten thousand gospel tracts, throughout the United States, Mexico, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Phillipine Islands.

The character and career of Otis F. Presbrey adds credit to this old New England family.

Dec. 23, 1895, m. 1st, Sept. 18, 1826, Elizabeth Jewet, dau. of Ira and Elizabeth (Warren) Jewet of Tolland, Conn. She was b. ——, and d. Mar. 5, 1855, in Wisconsin. He m. 2nd, about 1860, Mary Ann Hershey. Miner G. Presbrey became influenced by the Mormon excitement that spread over the country 1837-1845. He joined the Mormons or church of Latter Day Saints, Aug. 18, 1837, but did not go West until 1849. He lived in Connecticut and in western Massachusetts. He lived a short time in Wisconsin in 1849 and '50. In 1852 he crossed the plains to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he remained but a short time, and in the autumn of 1852 went to San Bardine, California, where he remained some time and then returned to Salt Lake City. In 1857 he was chosen to go on a mission to the Central States. After fulfilling this mission he returned to Salt Lake City in 1860. While on this mission he married his second wife. Soon after his return to Salt Lake City, he went as one of the early settlers to St. George, Utah, where he spent the rest of his life, and where some of his descendants now live. Mr. Presbrey was a successful farmer, and was familiarly known in Utah as "The Yankee Farmer." If Mr. Presbrey believed in the Mormon dogma of plural wives, he did not practice it. He was not a polygamist. He had only one wife at a time. He did not marry his second wife until some four years after the death of his first wife. He may have been an orthodox Mormon in other respects, but it is much to his credit that he did not yield to the temptation to become a polygamist. He had a large family of twenty-two children, eleven by each wife. He lived to the ripe age of ninety years, and was eighty years of age when his last child was born.

Oct. 19, 1863, Sarah Williams Briggs, dau. of Artemas and Susan Shaw (Williams) Briggs. She d. Aug. 18, 1893, after that his two daughters, Clara and Florence, made his home pleasant and ministered to his comfort during his last years.

Dr. Presbrey received his early education in the public schools of Taunton. He entered the high school in the spring of 1852 when only thirteen years of age. In 1856 he entered Harvard college without conditions. In his sophomore year, the winter of 1858, he taught the school on Spring street, Taunton, and in his junior and senior years, 1859 and '60, he taught the winter terms of the East Weir school in Taunton. Although he thus did much work outside his college course he kept up with his class and stood so high that in his junior and senior years he won a state scholarship, and upon his graduation he was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Society. He graduated in 1860, A. B. and in due time received his A. M. from Harvard. Immediately after his graduation he took up the study of medicine, his chosen profession, with Dr. Henry B. Hubbard of Taunton, and in October, 1860, entered the Medical School of Harvard University. Early in the following winter William E. Fuller, principal of the high school in Taunton, resigned, and Mr. Presbrey was urged to take the position. He accepted and was principal of the high school until June, 1863. During his service as principal he introduced a systematic curriculum of study covering a period of four years. While doing full work as principal he earnestly devoted all his spare time to the study of medicine, and in 1863 returned to the Medical School of Harvard University, from which he graduated, M. D. in the spring of 1865. About the time of his graduation he was appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts as resident physician of the state almshouse at Tewksbury. In 1865 he became a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, in which society he afterwards held office. He opened an office in Taunton, and was soon after appointed city physician, an office which he held until 1870.

Dr. Presbrey was president of the Bristol Medical Society in 1869-70. In 1868 he established his residence and office at the corner of Weir and Harrison streets where he remained the rest of his life. He was a leading member of the school board of Taunton from 1866 to 1872, and again from 1877 to 1884.

Dr. Presbrey was one of the founders and served as president of the Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society, composed of the medical examiners of the state. He was a member of the American Medical Association, and was vice-president of the American Academy of Medicine. He published from time to time many articles in different medical journals, and his writings were highly appreciated by the medical profession generally. He was the principal founder of Morton Hospital, and delivered the dedicatory address at the opening of the hospital Jan. 3, 1899.

Dr. Presbrey had a large practice in his profession and a great circle of friends widely scattered. His ability and reputation as a physician brought people from a distance to receive his advice in difficult cases. His genial and sympathetic personality made him a welcome and helpful visitor in the homes of his patients. All through his life, even after failing health caused him to retire from the practice of his profession, he maintained great interest in all public affairs, and his advice was often sought by men in official positions. In both his private and public life, Dr. Presbrey was esteemed as a man whose word was unquestioned, and whose honor and integrity was above reproach. He was a member of the First Congregational (Unitarian) church, always interested in its activities, and a constant attendant upon its services. He will long be remembered as an excellent physician, an educator and a leading citizen of Taunton.

Erected a large concentrating plant, and operated it until Sept., 1909, when he sold the property to Charles M. Schwab. Mr. Presbrey can trace his ancestry through his grandmother, Fannie Soper, back to Captain Miles Standish of the old Plymouth Colony. On that account he has recently become a member of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants. He is also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. Indeed all of the descendants of William Presbrey, in the male line, and some in the female line are eligible to the Sons of the American Revolution, because all six of the grandsons of William were in the Revolutionary service, and the husbands of several of the granddaughters were. The writer is able to furnish records in proof of this statement.

Mr. Presbrey was associated with the Buffalo Courier as a reporter in 1873 and '74. He entered Princeton University in Sept. 1875, where he pursued the regular college course two years. In 1890 Princeton conferred upon him the honorary degree of A. M. He was attached to the editorial staff of the National Republican of Washington, D. C., 1877 and '78. He was in the employ of the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe, and the Denver and Rio Grande railroads for several years previous to 1882, when he went to Youngstown, Ohio, to become editor of the Youngstown Daily Register, which position he held until 1885. He was the originator and founder of the unique and popular magazine known as Public Opinion, of which he was the editor and manager in Washington, D. C., 1886-1894. Public Opinion is now merged in The Literary Digest of New York. Thus, Mr. Presbrey is to be credited with being the originator of the kind of magazine that is seen in The Literary Digest. Mr. Presbrey was on the editorial staff of The Forum, New York

City, 1894-'96. In 1896 he became the founder of the well known advertising company in New York City, which bears his name and of which he is the head. Mr. Presbrey was a student at Lafeyette College, 1884-'85. and at Columbian University, Washington, D. C., 1885-'86. He was with the Kansas Loan and Trust Co., Topeka, Kan., 1886-'88, and part of the time, 1888 to 1894, was in the employ of Public Opinion. Subsequently he did some work for the Evangelist, of which his father was the business manager. He was for a time the representative of an engraving Co. His residence was for a number of years at Richmond Hill, Long Island. Mr. Presbrey was much interested in the genealogy of the family and collected some data for the work. His untimely death caused this work to cease when only a beginning had been made. A few letters and memoranda which Mr. Presbrey had collected were turned over to the writer by his brother, Mr. Frank Presbrey, and have been found of some value in furnishing information from parties since deceased. George J. Presbrey became interested and began this genealogical work under the inspiration of his father, Dr. Otis F. Presbrey.

(440). REV. JOSEPH WAITE PRESBY, son of Samuel Baker and Rhoda Merrill (Waite) Presby, b. Mar. 9, 1850, in Littleton, N. H. He received his preparatory education in the high schools at Lisbon and at Littleton, N. H., graduated from the English course of the Littleton high school, graduated from the classical course at Tilton Seminary, Tilton, N. H., June, 1874, was a student at Boston University, 1875-'76. He subsequently completed his college course and graduated with the degree of Ph. B. at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill. Several years later, when a pastor in New Jersey, conveniently near New York City, he matriculated in the Graduate School of New York University, continued there four years, at the same time being pastor of a church, and completed three courses more than was required for the degrees of A. M. and Ph. D. He had previously completed non-resident courses with Illinois Wesleyan University, and received the degrees of A. M. and Ph. D.

Mr. Presby joined the New Hampshire Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church on probation, April 26, 1875, at Haverhill, Mass., and was appointed to Pittsburg, the most Northern town in New Hampshire, where he remained six months, and during that time built and dedicated a church building. He was the first pastor of any denomination in that town. He was received into full membership in the travelling connection, at Dover, N. H., and ordained a Deacon, April 22, 1877, by Bishop Jesse T. Peck. He was ordained an Elder by Bishop Randolph S. Foster at Plymouth, N. H., Apr. 13, 1879. He received appointments as pastor in the New Hampshire Conference from 1875 to 1886, when he accepted a transfer to the Northwest Kansas Conference, and was turned loose by Bishop Walden in Cheyenne County, the Northwest corner county in Kansas, to organize the church. He was the first preacher of any denomination to enter that county as a pastor. In the course of a year he organized and incorporated two churches and six Sunday Schools in that county. On account of the death of a child and the homesickness of his wife he secured a transfer to the New England Southern Conference in the spring of 1887. The year in Kansas was a year of hard work. The circuit covered the county, ten hundred and twenty square miles, as large as the state of Rhode Island. In doing this work Mr. Presby was in the saddle nearly every day. Sometimes he rode in the saddle thirty-five miles and preached three times on Sunday. The four years from 1887 to 1891 were spent very pleasantly in pastoral work in Connecticut. He spent six years, 1891-'97, as a pastor in the Troy Conference, in the Lake Champlain valley. In March, 1897, he was transferred to the New Jersey Conference in which conference he received appointments as a pastor until the summer of 1906, when he was appointed Professor of Philosophy and Principal of the Normal Department of Taylor University at Upland, Indiana. On account of a quarrel among the trustees of the University over a proposition to move the University to Muncie, Ind., Mr. Presby, with fifteen other members of the faculty, including the President, resigned. In Oct., 1907, Mr. Presby was transferred to the Genesee Conference, and spent the next five years as a pastor in western New York. In the spring of 1913, he was transferred to the New Hampshire Conference, and continues his work as a pastor in his native state among some of the friends of his early life.

Mr. Presby has served on important positions in the annual conferences of which he has been a member: four years as Statistical Secretary of the New Hampshire Conference, four years as chairman of the board of examiners in the Troy Conference, eight years as assistant secretary of the New Jersey Conference, besides being on nearly all of the standing committees from time to time.

Mr. Presby has been a member of "The American Historical Association", "The Troy Conference Historical Society", "The American Academy of Political and Social Sciences", and "The New England Historic Genealogical Society." He is a member of the "Sons of the American Revolution".

Appendix

OTHER PRESBURYS AND PRESBYS IN AMERICA

In the extensive research which has been made to find the descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton, Mass., quite a large number of people bearing the name of Presbury or Presby have been found whose ancestry has not been traced, but who are not descendants of William Presbrey of Taunton. As their records have never been published, except in scattered fragments here and there it is thought best to make this book interesting to a larger number of people, and possibly help some in developing their family tree, by printing here such fragmentary records as we have come across. All who bear the name, Presbury, Presbrey or Presby in America have claimed an English ancestry, and it may be that all who bear this name could find a common English ancestry in the mother country.

The first person of this name known to have been in this country was John Presbury of Sandwich, Mass. We have no record of his ancestry or when he came to America. The records of him and of his family are quite meager. He was living in Sandwich, Barnstable County, Mass., in 1641, as there is a record that his daughter, Mary, was born in that place March 10, 1641.

Gen. Register, First Settlers in N. E., Vol. 3, p. 480.

In a list of sixty-eight men between the ages of sixteen and sixty, able to do military duty, in Sandwich, Colony of New Plymouth, in 1643, appears the name of John Presbury.

There is a record that John Presbury was buried May 19, 1648. His widow m. July 22, 1649, Richard Chadwell of Sandwich. He is mentioned as being a shipwright in Saugus, Mass., in 1636, a witness in the Salem court in 1637, as a proprietor in Sandwich, April 3, 1637, and concerned in a lawsuit in 1641.

Pioneers of Mass. C. H. Pope, p. 91.

Also Cape Cod Annals, Thirteen towns of Barnstable County, Vol. 2, p. 44.

John Presbury must have had other children besides the daughter, Mary, mentioned above, because a tombstone in Sandwich records the name of Stephen Presbury, who was b. in 1673, and m. Deborah Skiffe, who was b. in Sandwich, July 24, 1668. Their children were born in Sandwich: Mary, Aug. 28, 1694, Keturah, Apr. 28, 1698. Stephen Presbury was probably a grandson of John Presbury.

Keziah Presbury of Sandwich, m. Edmund Freeman, about 1707 or 1708. She was b. in 1688, and d. in Mansfield, Conn., Apr. 20, 1764, age, 77y. It is supposed that Keziah was a sister of Stephen Presbury and a granddaughter of John Presbury.

Edmund Freeman's father bought a thousand acres of land in Mansfield, Conn., and Edmund Freeman, with his wife, Keziah, went there to live in 1741-'42. Their children were: Edmund, Lydia, Prince, Stephen, Sylvanus, Nathaniel, Keziah and Sarah.

Sarah Freeman m. Malachi Conant, their daughter, Mary Conant, m. James Parker, and their daughter, Sarah Parker, was the grandmother of Mrs. Mary Wyman of Ohio, who furnished part of this data.

John Presbury of Saco, Maine, was a constable in that place in 1670. He died in 1679. He had a son Nathaniel Presbury.

Gen. Reg. First Settlers in N. E. Vol. 3, p. 480.

In 1670 John Presbury was living in that part of Saco that is now Biddeford. He bought fifty acres of land. In the deed he is called a shoemaker.

It seems likely that this John Presbury was a son of John Presbury of Sandwich, Mass. At that time there was frequent communication by water between Massachusetts and the towns on the Maine coast, and settlers migrated from one place to the other.

In letters of Col. Thomas Westbrook relative to Indian affairs in Maine, is one dated North Yarmouth, Me., May 6, 1723, in which he mentions John Presbury as one of the men who were to guard the ferry at Black Point. Probably this was a son of John Presbury of Saco.

N. E. Hist. Gen. Register, Vol. 44, p. 178.

John Presbury is also mentioned as living in Falmouth, Me., in 1723.

In 1726, Edward Presbury and Stephen Presbury were heirs to land on the Kennebunk River, inherited from Richard Randall. (Maine Deeds).

In the diary of William Holmes of Chilmark, Mass., is the following memorandum: "Mr. Presbury of Oldtown died last Lord's day". The date of this memorandum is May 24, 1730. N. E. Hist. Gen. Register, Vol. 50, p. 163.

"Nathaniel Presbury of Blackfriars in London, in Great Britain, and Parthenia Benson of Portsmouth, N. H., were married March 31, 1726." Records of birth, marriages and deaths, Portsmouth, N. H. 1706-1742.

At an early date there were Presburys living in Baltimore, Md., and vicinity. There is a record that Gouldsmith Presbury was appointed by King George the III, High Sheriff of Baltimore County, Maryland.

Edward Presbrey was born in Hartford County, Maryland, in 1801. When a young man he went to Jefferson County, Ohio, where he lived a number of years and followed the business of a miller. His wife was Martha Bayliss. She died in 1849. Soon after her death Mr. Presbury sold his property in Ohio, bought five hundred head of cattle, took them to California, where he sold some of the cattle and bought a ranch near Gault, Cal. There he spent the rest of his life. He is said to have descendants now living in California.

In 1794, George G. Presbury was appointed one of the Justices of the Orphan's Court in Baltimore, Md.

In 1799 a new court of Oyer and Terminer was instituted for Baltimore County and city, and Walter Dorsey appointed Chief Justice, with George Presbury and Job Smith associate Justices. Scharf's Chronicles of Baltimore.

George Presbury, Jr., of Baltimore was at one time the proprietor of a fashionable hotel at Long Branch, N. J.

The following record was found in the State Library at Harrisburg, Pa., "Leonard Presby married Miss Agnes McKee of Hanover township, Lancaster County, Pa., Mar. 25, 1775."

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Casper Stoever, a Lutheran Minister, who was at that time located at Lebanon township, but preached throughout eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Shenandoah Valley.

If this Leonard Presby was of the Baltimore family, either he had shortened the spelling of his name or the recorder did so. Possibly he was from one of the New England families.

There has been a numerous family in Bradford, N. H. Originally they spelled the name Presbury, but later seem to have adopted the shorter spelling, Presby. Deacon William Presbury was the first settler in Bradford, N. H., having located in that town Nov. 28, 1771. He was soon after that date joined by Nathaniel, James, and Joseph Presbury. Just what relation these four men were to each other has not yet been definitely determined. The first we know of Nathaniel, James and Joseph they were living in Chester, N. H., (now Auburn), where Nathaniel, Jr., was born Mar. 25, 1763. From the town of Chester, N. H., James and Joseph Presbury enlisted in the Revolutionary army. Some effort has been made to ascertain who was the father of James and Joseph Presbury, and also their relation to Deacon William and Nathaniel Presbury; but this question has not yet been settled. It appears quite likely that they were descendants of John Presbury of Saco, Maine. Possibly they were descendants of Nathaniel Presbury who married Parthenia Benson in Portsmouth, N. H. in 1726. Descendants of these Bradford, N. H. families are now widely scattered in all parts of the United States and in Canada.

The following records are found in "The Records of Commissioners of Boston, 1700-1800."

Nathan, son of Nathan and Elizabeth Presbery, b. Dec. 20, 1699.

Elizabeth, dau. of Nathan Presbee and Eliza, his wife, b. Jan. 12, 1703.

Dorcas, dau. of Nathan Presbery and Elizabeth, his wife, b. Mar. 10, 1710.

Thomas Welch and Abigail Presbury, intention filed, Oct. 15, 1746, m. Oct. 29, 1746.

Daniel Presbury and Mary Gardiner, intention filed May 20, 1737, m. July 14, 1737.

Henry Lord and Elizabeth Presbery, m. Aug. 7, 1718, by Mr. Benjamin Wadsworth, P.

John Presbery and Sarah Hood, m. July 29, 1731, by Mr. Samuel Schekley. P.

James Bird of Roxbury, and Deborah Presbury, m. Nov. 14, 1765.

It is stated in "Vital Statistics of Woodstock, Conn." published by the N. E. Hist Gen. Society, that Mr. George Arnold and Mrs. Polly Presbray were joined in marriage July 28, 1808, by Biel Ledoyt, Clerk of Woodstock.

The Forum, in charge of publishing and advertising.

Starts Firm

In 1896 he started the advertising firm bearing his name, and sometimes was called "the dean of advertising." For 35 years he remained as its president and treasurer, becoming chairman of the board in 1930.

During his career as advertising agent he handled many of the country's most notable campaigns. They included the wartime drive of the Red Cross and the United War Work Campaign.

Mr. Presbrey was for many years a contributor of articles on travel to several magazines. He also was the author of "The History of Athletics at Princeton," "Motoring Abroad" and "The History and Development of Advertising."

Insurance Director

He was a director of the New York Life Insurance Company and a former vice-president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Presbrey is survived by his wife, the former Stella Spalding, of Louisville, Ky., and two daughters, Marguerite Presbrey and Dr. Alice Presbrey, of Pinehurst, N. C.

Funeral services will be held at 1 a. m. Tuesday in the Central Presbyterian Church, 593 Park ave., New York City.

PRESBREY DIES AT 81; FOUNDED ADVERTISING CO.

Former Editor and Publisher Was Classmate of Wilson And Intimate of McKinley

GREENWICH Conn., Oct. 10.—Frank Presbrey, 81, former editor and publisher, and chairman of the board of the New York advertising company bearing his name, died today at his Summer home here.

Mr. Presbrey was born in Buffalo. His youth was largely spent o na farm in Monroe County. He entered Princeton University in 1875 as a member of the famous class of 1879, and his classmates included the late President Woodrow Wilson, Cleveland H. Dodge and Robert Bridges, editor of Scribner's Magazine.

Editor in 1881

Soon after leaving college, Mr. Presby took charge of advertising for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway.

From 1881 to 1885 he was editor and publisher of the Youngstown, Ohio, News-Register and was a close friend of William McKinley, then in Congress and later elected President.

In 1885 Mr. Presby went to Washington to found, and publish for eight years, "Public Opinion," which subsequently was consolidated with the Literary Digest. While in Washington he was elected a member of the famous Gridiron Club.

Nine years later he joined Walter Hines Page, afterward American Ambassador to England, on
